

Our Daily Bread

Sliced Thin by The Editor
Alex. H. Washburn

Typographically
Sometimes Rough

From some unnamed printers' magazine Basil Edwards clipped out the following jingle and handed it to me as the consolation sonnet or later due anyone who is in the newspaper business:

The typographical error is a slippery thing and sly; You can hunt it 'til you're dizzy, But it somehow will get by.

'Til the forms are off the presses It is strange how still it keeps. It shinks down in a corner And it never stirs or peeps.

That typographical error, Too small for human eyes, 'Til it is on the paper, When it grows to mountain size.

The remainder of the issue May be clean as clean can be, But the typographical error Is the only thing you see!

It happens to the big fellows as well as the small ones. On the front page of the Arkansas Democrat for Friday, May 13, there was what is known in newspaper parlance as a major bust. Under a three-column heading, the Democrat started off the Berlin Blockade story in 10-point type, which later dropped down to 7-point body type (like this you are reading). Over on the other side of the page the Democrat had a double-column heading on the Gearhart Eiler story, which also started in 10-point and dropped down to 7-point. A section of the 10-point Eiler story turned up on the account of the Berlin Blockade.

You might have charged it up to the Friday-the-13th jinx. Actually it was merely a traffic error in the newspaper shop. The 10-point section came out in two different sizes, one in 10-point and the smaller type, and the big-type inserts were switched.

Most familiar to the public, however, are typographical errors such as ending in ETAIN, SHRDJ, or CMFWY. These combinations are, in order, the first, second and third vertical lines on a linotype keyboard — and the operator, confronted with a bad line, runs a finger down the keyboard to find the line and then get rid of it. Then he forgets to throw out the bad line, the proofreader misses it — and there you are.

Transposed letters in a word and transposed lines in a column are errors chargeable to the machine rather than the operator. So are split words, such as the "e" being split off "the" and added to the next word. A space-band — the device which separates words — came down a split-second early and chopped off the "e."

But a "d" for an "r" is an operator's error, since these letters are adjacent on the keyboard, and "is a" for an "e" — you're hitting one key low.

But newspapers handle an enormous amount of type, and swiftly. The Star's two automatic body-type linotypes have a capacity of approximately 37,000 words in a seven-hour shift. At that rate they could set up the average novel in less than 20 hours.

Worst of all typographical errors, of course, are (1) where a line is missing from a story, and (2) where a correct line has been put in the wrong place. A line not sufficiently filled out won't cast on a linotype, and it's up to the proofreader to make sure the story reads continuously. George Hosmer, the Star's mechanical superintendent, investigated a line to end missing lines. When a line fails to cast, the linotype rings a bell. He got a good writeup about it in the trade magazines.

Finally, it's dangerous business to read proof on a story or an advertisement you have written yourself. Editors do well to read their own proofs twice. The fact that you know what's coming in the text is disastrous to careful proofreading. Ask any newspaper man, or any merchant.

But I don't know that newspapermen have to apologize for their errors — not when Collier's magazine publishes a "double-page spread" of an Army Air Corps color photograph of the big dam at Las Vegas, calls it "Hoover Dam" instead of Boulder, and reverses the picture so that the states east and west of it swap places. A month later Collier's was hearing plenty from angry readers about (1) "Hoover" for "Boulder" and (2) "Who changed the map of the U. S. A.?"

Emmet Garden Club Carnival Friday Night

Southerners to Offer 'Rights' Compromise

Washington, May 16 — (UP) — A group of Southern Democrats offered congress a "compromise" civil rights program today in the hope of ending political blocking on the issue between President Truman and the south.

Rep. Brooks Hays, (D-Ark.), said he will represent the group — of undisclosed size — in house committee hearings this week on administration bills to outlaw the poll tax and set up a fair employment practices commission.

Hays said he feels the south's determined stand against Mr. Truman's program has been "too emotional."

In hearings tomorrow and Thursday, Hays will ask: 1. That the anti-poll tax proposal be changed to a proposed constitutional amendment to bedrocked entirely if the seven states which still have such taxes repeal them. Changing the constitution, he said, would not infringe on traditional local control of elections as would the administration bill.

2. That any FEPC body be merely advisory. The administration's FEPC bill would create an agency with power to prevent job discrimination against Negroes.

Administration leaders are expected to give the so-called compromise a chilly reception.

Rep. Emmanuel Celler, (D-N.Y.), meanwhile, announced he is introducing in the house, "as a legislative measure," a bill which have "the wholehearted approval of the president," anti-lynching and civil rights acts. The latter would create a civil rights division in the department of justice with power to investigate and punish individuals when local authorities fail. Similar bills already have been introduced in the senate.

YOUTH KILLED
Defending Girl Friends

Welland, Ont., May 16 — (UP) — An heroic 18-year-old American high school boy fought for his life in a hospital here today. He was wounded critically yesterday while defending two girls from a drunken gunman who killed another boy with them at a lakeside wienner roast.

Richard Joseph, a student at Bennett high school, Buffalo, N. Y., was in Welland county hospital, his right arm shattered by a bullet that lodged in his abdomen.

George Szendrei, 28, found cowering in a bush on the shore of the Cayuga lake, was charged with the murder of a "vague memory" of what had happened. But the two girls in his hand identified him as the gunman.

Lydia Liusi, 16, Snetky's date, and Geraldine Florio, 18, with Joseph, said that there were six couples on the Saturday night wienner roast at Pleasant Beach, 15 miles west of Fort Erie.

The other eight boys and girls left in another car shortly after midnight and the remaining four stayed longer.

When we got back to the car, a gun in his hand. He was drunk. Lydia said, "This strange-looking man in his hand. He was drunk. And he talked wild."

She said the man ordered the boys to get away and let him have the girls. Lydia said, "This strange-looking man in his hand. He was drunk. And he talked wild."

But the two boys leaped at the gunman, throwing themselves between him and the girls.

The man fired once. Harold fell, a bullet in his head. Then he fired again. Richard was hit in the chest. When Richard tried to close in and grapple with the intruder, the gunman fired again, this time hitting him.

The youth fell. But when the stronger ordered the girls to come with him, Lydia said, "Richard struggled to his feet and again lunged for the man. This time he managed to grab the gun and wrest it from his assailant. The man was heard shouting, 'Hoover Dam' instead of Boulder, and reverses the picture so that the states east and west of it swap places. A month later Collier's was hearing plenty from angry readers about (1) "Hoover" for "Boulder" and (2) "Who changed the map of the U. S. A.?"

Gen. Clay Is Enroute to Washington

Berlin, May 16 — (UP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay, retiring American military governor, was en route to Washington by plane today.

He took off at 6 p. m. Berlin time last night and is due in Washington tomorrow morning.

Before leaving, Clay reviewed the daily retreat ceremony in front of his Berlin military government headquarters.

Later several thousand Americans, German and Allied nations appeared at Tempelhof Airrome to watch the general start his trip into eventual retirement in Georgia, where he will do some cat fishing.

Berlin city officials have seen to it that the general's name joins Kaiser Wilhelm's and Bismarck's in the Berlin city directory. They have decided to change the name of Im Doi, the street on which the general lived, to General Lucius Clay strasse.

Vote on Housing Bill May Be Truman Victory

Washington, May 16 (P). — Democrats leaders hope to hand President Truman this week, at last, one major victory in his program. This would be in housing.

The house tentatively set a vote for Thursday or Friday on the administration's multi-billion dollar housing bill. It calls for a far-flung program of slum clearance, low-rent public housing and farm housing aids.

House passage would head the legislation toward the president's desk. The bill was approved by 21 by a top-heavy 37 to 13 vote.

However, there still is a possibility the measure may be delayed in the house rules committee. Moreover, Republicans and some Democrats are expected to try to amend it on the floor.

Meanwhile, other parts of Mr. Truman's program still hit rough or slow going.

In the first four and a half months of this congress Mr. Truman has passed only one major bill based on his domestic legislative proposals of the 1948 political campaign. That one, continuing rent control, was not quite what he wanted in a number of ways.

Now, with only yet for a few months remaining before congress is supposed to adjourn, here is about the way other portions of his program are getting on:

Taxes — economy blocs on both sides of the Capitol are crying for slashes in government spending. Instead of tax boosts, Mr. Truman wants a $4,000,000,000 tax increase.

If congress cannot balance the budget by economy, it may try to raise taxes in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Labor — there are behind the scenes efforts to find a compromise following house defeat of the first effort of administration forces to pass the Fair-Hartley labor law. No date is set yet for a showdown in either house.

The problem is to find a way to deal with national emergency strikes. This involves decisions on whether to issue injunctions, plant seizures, or both.

Social security — the house ways and means committee now is working on a bill. Indications now are that it is disposed to write one to Truman's liking, going well along with his requests for extension of old age insurance to many millions more persons.

But this bill may get caught in a session-end legislative logjam.

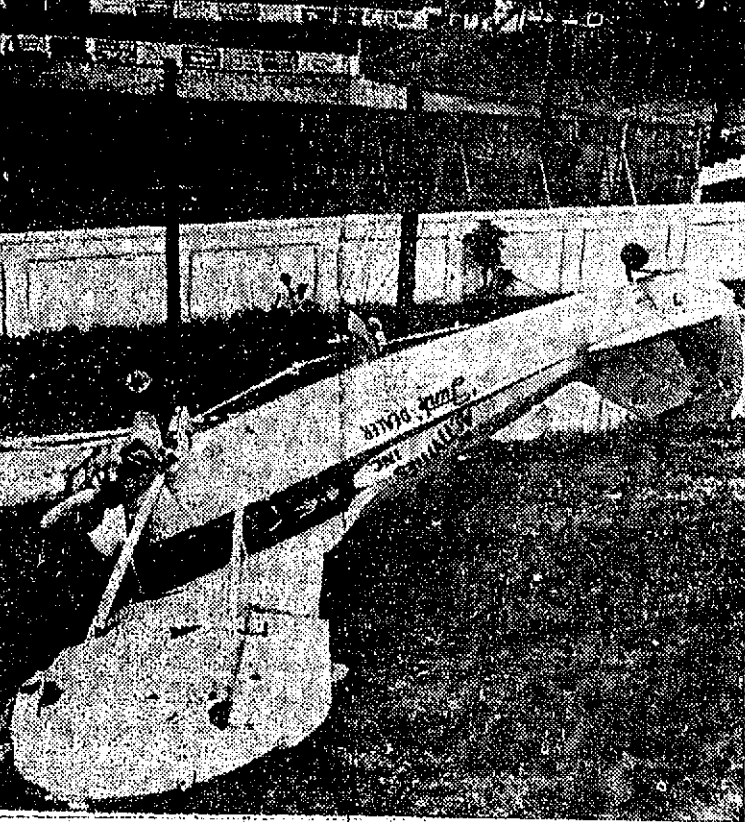

Education — the senate has approved a bill providing $300,000,000 in federal aid to schools. Democratic leaders think it has a good chance of passing the house, too.

Civil rights — a senate filibuster stopped efforts to write anti-segregation amendments to housing and labor bills have been defeated. Some friends of anti-segregation legislation want it handled independently, and a house subcommittee now is working on a general civil rights measure. There is doubt it will pass at this session of congress.

Medicine — Mr. Truman's proposal for a national health insurance system in 1950, but what it will be is just about anybody's guess. It is not likely to be more than a small part of the administration's new "production payment" program that some farm organizations have attacked as a subsidy of the program.

If the housing bill gets to a vote it will top a busy week.

'They Turned the Lights Out'

The plot walked away with minor scratches and bruises after attempting a night-time crash landing in a Kansas City, Mo., base ball park and winding up in this position in an adjacent schoolyard. Pilot Ed Lobdell, 29, said he would have made the landing safely if 5000 fans were leaving the park after a night game, "but they turned the lights out on me. The plane caught a concrete wall around the park in the background, but trolley wires caught the wheels of the craft and whipped it over on its back."

Proclamation

The community Concert Association this week is holding a campaign for members for the purpose of assuring a series of concerts by world famous artists here during the season 1949-50.

Every community is improved by advantages of sound business establishments, industries, good schools, churches, libraries and various municipal improvements. The availability of fine music presented by authoritative musicians is another advantage which will benefit those making their homes in Hope.

Having become interested in music through the excellent instructions in our schools and by our private teachers, through the many radio programs bringing these treasures freely into our homes, and through motion pictures, many of us will be glad to welcome our Carnegie Hall in Hope for the enjoyment and cultural development of ourselves and the education and pleasure of our children.

THEREFORE, as Mayor of Hope, I proclaim this week, May 16th to May 22nd, officially as COMMUNITY CONCERT WEEK.

Signed Lyle Brown
Mayor of Hope, Arkansas.

Holland Tunnel Explosion Is Small Example of What Could Happen in Event of War

By HAL BOYLE
New York, (P) — The explosion of a chemical-laden truck in the Holland tunnel gave America a needed peace-time lesson of what could happen in war.

It was a small scale example of how vulnerable a great city is today.

The Holland vehicular tunnel runs beneath the Hudson river and joins Manhattan and Jersey City. It has twin tubes, each more than 9,000 feet long.

The accidental blast tied up traffic in the westbound tube a few hours, halted traffic in the east-bound tube more than a day. It temporarily interrupted news, television, telephone and wirephoto circuits.

But what would happen if a band of desperate, highly trained men made a determined attempt to knock out New York City? This thought keeps police officials nervous about the activities of political groups who believe in changing governments by force.

It has been estimated that as few as five atom bombs, properly placed, would render the metropolis nearly helpless.

But it wouldn't require atom bombs to plunge the city into a period of chaos. An internal fifth column of revolutionary technicians could conceivably accomplish this objective — for a time — for vital hours or days they might slow or nearly halt the pulsing heart of the greatest city ever built.

That heart is Manhattan, where huge congested headquarters in the tallest towers beneath the sky. This small island is the most intricate thing ever devised by the mind and labor of man. It is a few square miles of beauty, ugliness, life and death, poverty and wealth. But it is very important to all America. It is more than just an artificial island on the land, more than a parasite on the rest of the nation.

With its vast port and its many talents, it gives as well as takes. The arteries that feed Manhattan are a system of some 30 channels that include the Holland tunnel, public utility tubes, vehicular and railway tunnels and bridges. They join in west, north and east to New Jersey, the Bronx and Long Island.

Choke those channels or destroy them and Manhattan would black out like the brain deprived of blood.

Twister Leaves 4 Dead, 65 Seriously Hurt

Amarillo, Tex., May 16 — (P) — A skipping, whipping tornado tore through southern Amarillo last night, killing four people. About 65 were injured.

It was the first destructive tornado in the 62-year-old history of this panhandle capital of 102,000 people.

Dawn found Red Cross and volunteer workers still picking their way through debris. It looked as if a big kitchen mixer had dipped in, stirred everything up, and then spewed it around.

Although many sections of Amarillo were hit, the tornado's most destructive blow fell on the southern area dotted largely with new homes of veterans. A near-cloud-burst — and hailstones as large as a man's fist — added to the damage.

Ambulances and highway patrol units went into Amarillo from a 200-mile radius, bringing injured to the crowded hospitals. Red Cross people flew in from St. Louis.

To property damage there may be added heavy loss to crops in the wheat-rich Texas panhandle. Hail such as fell here would destroy the near-ripe wheat — but smashed the communication lines made it difficult to discover the extent of the hailstorm.

Three carloads of pigs, smashed free from their freight-car prison rooted in the wreckage here. Curious sight seers thronged streets already littered with tossed roofs which were blown a mile.

Night rescue work was carried on by the lights of cars, ambulances and trucks. Electric power was out.

The four dead had been identified. They were: Mrs. Lois Martin, 30. Eva McPherson, 55. George McPherson, 67. Mrs. Charles Maserang, age unknown.

The twister seemed to hit first on 28th street. It moved south. Roofs left houses in the whirling. The trees were uprooted and laid on their sides.

A record wheat crop is maturing in the Panhandle, and it was feared the accompanying hail and downpour might have caused heavy crop damage.

One hospital had 34 known injured and another had 29. Most suffered from bruises but some were unconscious.

Louis Nordyke of the Amarillo Globe-News said officials at the Tradwinds airport in Amarillo reported 45 planes were destroyed and that two hangars were flattened. Damage there alone was estimated at $200,000.

Nordyke said the post office, Massey-Harris, biggest farm implement dealer in the Panhandle, reported another $200,000 damage. Most of it was in badly needed wheat combines and other harvesting equipment.

Tornadoes hit elsewhere in the Panhandle. They knocked out telephone and telegraph lines, but the damage at places except Amarillo was believed light.

State highway patrol units from Lubbock, Plainview, Fort Worth and Wichita Falls came to assist in rescue work. Gov. Beauford Jester's office at Austin called for blood plasma.

In south Amarillo the twister missed the giant U. S. helium plant, located in the direction from which the twister came.

Ten or more cars of a moving Santa Fe freight train were blown off the track.

The twister suddenly still, just before the twister struck the scene like there was a great explosion.

Maury Teague, a reporter for the Amarillo Globe-News, said most of the houses were leveled. Teague's mother and father had their house blown down around them.

"My father was sitting in a chair holding his 18-year old dog when it hit," said Teague. "My father was not hurt. The dog was killed."

Government Savings Bonds Drive Starts

Washington, May 16 — (P) — This is the starting day of a government drive to sell $1,040,000,000 savings bonds to the public.

President Truman will make a five-minute radio speech tonight at 9:23 p. m. CST as part of an hour-long program signaling the start of the campaign.

The bond drive will run until June 30. An estimated 3,000,000 volunteer workers will include 250,000 newspaper carriers who will distribute literature and order forms.

These bonds, of the Series E type, pay off $4 for each $3 invested if held for ten years before they mature. They can be cashed in in the meantime.

Wife Slayer Claims Self Defense

Little Rock, May 16 — (UP) — A hotly-contested court trial appeared certain today in connection with first degree murder charges filed against Wilson E. Russell, 36, a year-old former railway postal clerk.

City police said Hunt admitted to them that he shot and killed his estranged wife, Wilma E. Hunt, 38, and Edwin J. Fugate, 36, Saturday, and as they sat together in the front seat of a car here.

But Sam Robinson, Hunt's attorney, refused to let his client make a formal statement. Robinson also said yesterday that "it looks like a clear case of self-defense to me."

Pulaski county officers meanwhile contended they had enough evidence to convict Hunt without requiring the statement.

Deputy Prosecutor Tom Downie said "it's all right with us if he doesn't make a statement as we already have sufficient evidence."

Robinson conferred with Hunt for nearly five hours at the city jail yesterday. A minister later visited with him.

The dark-haired prisoner has maintained a calm demeanor since his arrest.

Investigating officers said Hunt told them upon their arrival at the scene that "I just shot two people and they both are over there in that car." The bullet added bodies of the couple were found huddled together in the front seat of an Oldsmobile sedan.

Pulaski Coroner Howard A. Disbrow said seven empty cartridges from a .38 Smith & Wesson pistol were found. Disbrow added that numerous bullet wounds were disclosed by autopsies and that the shots apparently fired at close range.

Officers said Shelby Hicks, University of Arkansas Medical student who lives near the scene of the crime, informed them of the tragedy by telephone. Hicks was quoted as saying that Hunt came to his house, said he had just shot two people and requested Hicks to call police.

The motor of the car was still running when police arrived, but Downie said he believed the car was not moving when the fatal shots were fired.

Two of the investigating officers quoted Hunt as saying the occupants of the car had attempted to run him down. This apparently was the basis for Robinson's statement that the case was one of self-defense.

Coeds Hopeful Clothing Can Be Salvaged

Columbia, Mo., May 16 — (P) — Twenty-five University of Missouri co-eds who were left homeless when fire destroyed their dormitory rooming house here Saturday night were established in a university dormitory today, and waiting for it to come back from the cleaner, hoping it wouldn't smell too much like smoke.

Some had left only the shorts, sweaters and playthings which they were wearing at a picnic when a man student living nearby discovered the fire Saturday night.

The downtown fire department was busy fighting another fire. The police radio wouldn't work to summon it to the new blaze. The telephone wouldn't work to call out the other fire department in the university housing area. So the flames spread for 30 minutes as students fought them with garden hose while a youth peddled his bicycle to notify a fire department and police waited after the other in an automobile.

Fire Chief Tom Walden said the fire was caused by defective wiring. The loss was $35,000. The building is owned by the university.

Demands Follow Report That U. S. Is in Red

Washington, May 16 — (P) — week-end estimate that the government will go $3,000,000,000 into the red next year stirred up angry inquiries today for more economy and more taxes.

The estimate was made for the senate-house tax committee by its staff of experts.

They forecast a "moderate" business slump. They figured that in the fiscal year starting July 1, the government's income by $2,100,000,000 and adding that much to the $900,000,000 deficit predicted in President Truman's budget.

"That," said House Democratic Leader McCormack (Mass.), "is all the more reason for increasing taxes by $4,000,000,000." Senator Truman repeatedly has suggested.

In the senate, however, Senator Russell (D-Ga.) announced that he and some other Democratic members of the appropriations committee are drafting a bill to reduce $3,000,000,000 of federal spending.

Russell said "their plans" were started even before the report on the tax experts was issued. Senator Maybank (D-S.C.) suggested the $3,000,000,000 program as a good place to start.

Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.) chairman of the appropriations committee, said he would "rather cut government expenditures than raise taxes."

Rep. Woodruff (R-Mich.) told reporters: "The president ought to take some cognizance of the situation and forget some of his ambition along the lines of new and wide spread social security."

"The people already are taxed about to the limit. I'd like to know what legerdemain he feels he could do to reach-out and grab $4,000,000,000 more from the pockets of the people."

Woodruff is a member of the house ways and means committee, where tax bills get their start in congress. He said he was "enough Democrats on the committee would go along with Republicans to protect a tax cut."

Chairman Doughton (D-Mo.) doesn't want to be put in the position of warring with the president. And he wouldn't forecast what his committee will do. He said his own position is "wait and see."

"When it looks like we are going to spend more money than we get," he said, "economy is in order and important."

There are three courses open Doughton said: 1. Cut appropriations; 2. boost taxes; 3. resort to "deficit financing," which means going deeper into the red to pay for government expenses.

And, he said, the responsibility for the choice rests on all the members of congress, "not on Bob Doughton and not on Harry Truman."

The search and police committee of the committee for economic development (CED) got out today a statement Saturday saying that the present situation the only acceptable course is to reduce expenditures.

It said a tax boost can and should be followed by a $2,100,000,000 reduction in spending.

Famed Artist Is Reported Missing

Miami, Fla., May 16 — (UP) — 72-year-old Russian-born countess, a moneybelt containing $23,000 was the object of a state-wide police hunt today.

Capt. Louis A. Allen, head of the Miami Missing Persons bureau, said the wife of Count Oesper De Perelma reported that her husband had been missing for 12 days.

Mrs. De Perelma, the former Lydia Françoise Simpson, married the Russian-born artist a month ago. She offered a $10,000 reward for information leading to him.

She told officers that De Perelma failed to return from a trip to Florida City, where he was to paint the portrait of the mother of McGregor Smith, president of the Florida Power and Light Co. De Perelma was a well-known painter. She said she had been unable to pose, his wife said, but made no mention of future plans. Then he disappeared.

Mrs. De Perelma said the elderly artist was carrying $23,000, that had been sent her by her New York lawyers in payment for some land in the Florida Keys.

De Perelma is a graduate of the Imperial Academy of Art in St. Petersburg, Russia. He painted portraits of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and former Interior Secretary Franklin D. Lane. Two of his works hang in the Smithsonian Institute in Washington.

Mike Kelly to Dallas, Fort Worth Clothing Markets

Mike Kelly, owner of Ladies Specialty Shop, left last night on a buying tour of the Dallas and Fort Worth markets. Mr. Kelly will purchase new models for his shop here.

Thomas Paine's famous pamphlet, "Common Sense," was published Jan. 10, 1776.

Violence Takes Weekend Toll of 9 in Arkansas

By The Associated Press
Fire, homicides and drownings claimed at least nine lives in Arkansas over the weekend.
Six-year-old Terrence O'Rough drowned in a stock pond at his grandparents' farm near McGhee Saturday. The body was recovered several hours later.
Four Negro children perished when fire destroyed their home near North Little Rock the same day.
Mrs. Mildred Hunt, 30, and Edwin Joe Fugate, 38, were shot to death in Little Rock. Saturday night Mrs. Hunt's husband, Wesley, was held.
Sheriff Guy Hickman said a 50-year-old farm woman, Mrs. Varnell Heflin, of near Atkins, was shot fatally in her bed Sunday by her husband. A Lowell man, Edgar McGarrath, 46, was charged with manslaughter.

Everyone Should Take Time Out, Check on What Sort of a Guy He Really Is

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

I see by my newspaper that General Lucius Clay, having written some of the great history of our time, is hankering to get home from Germany so that he can go fishin'.
Now that's grand news. It's good to know that our military commander on the cold-war front belongs to that great fraternity which recognizes fishin' as one of the most important things in life. There's nothing which will put an overworked man on his feet quicker than to get back to nature with rod and line. There's no music so soothing to frayed nerves as the song of a running reel.
But fishin' is more than a pick-me-up for weary nerves. By taking a chap out of the hurly-burly of every-day life it gives him a chance to get acquainted with himself. That's important, you know. Everyone ought to take time off about once in so often for a check-up on just what sort of guy he himself is.

If you want to get acquainted with your fellow, go fishin' with him. If you want to get acquainted with yourself, do you likewise.

So it isn't so surprising to find a host of distinguished men (and women, for that matter) among the disciples of Izak Walton. They've learned the secret that puts them right with their maker, with their fellows and with themselves. It makes 'em fit, mentally and physically, and keeps 'em so.

I don't know whether we ever had a president who wasn't a fisherman, but we've had many who were. Certainly there have been plenty among the incumbents of recent years, beginning with Mr. Truman. Among his immediate predecessors were P. D. R. (not overlooking Vice President "Cactus Jack" Garner of Texas), Hoover, Cal Coolidge (the worm fisherman) and Teddy Roosevelt.

Speaking of Mr. Hoover, did you ever hear the story of his big trout, Moby Dick? It was related to me over the luncheon table in London by Hugh Gibson, distinguished diplomat and author, who at that time was U. S. ambassador to Belgium. That was back during the Hoover presidency.

During a trip to the states Gibson had been Hoover's guest in the presidential summer camp at Rapidan, near Washington. The first day, the president handed Hugh fly-fishin' equipment and told the ambassador to go catch a trout for himself. Gibson being an eager fisherman, rushed to his assignment.

For a considerable time the angler cast, with indifferent luck, but kept working along the stream until finally he came to a magnificent pool. It was ideal for trout. Hugh carefully maneuvered himself into position and made a beautiful cast.

As the fly touched the water there was a violent swirl and a strike like a ton of rock. Hugh set his hook, and the fight was on with what obviously was a big fish. The battle was long and thrilling, but finally the prize was brought to net and his excellency found himself possessor of a trout weighing several pounds.

Gibson carried the trout back to camp and turned it over to the cook in the kitchen. A little later the president strolled in and, after taking a look in the kitchen, came to where his envoy was sitting.

"Hugh, where did you get that big trout?" asked Hoover — and Gibson described the pool.
"My gosh," exclaimed the chief executive, "you've caught Moby Dick. He was presented to me by the citizens of —, and has been handed over since."

"But you don't have to be a president or an ambassador or a many starred general to be able to go fishin'. We little folk of the rank and file are the equal of kings in this respect. When we are tired, and worried because of hard times, we always can get rest and peace from the music of the singing reel and the laughter of the woodland stream."

Reds Reach Outskirts of Shanghai

By BLAKE GEARHART

Shanghai, May 16 — (UP) — Communist forces pushed through the outer suburbs of Shanghai today and swung around to the east side of the city in an encirclement drive that threatened to cut it off completely at any hour.
The Communist forces were massing in strength on every side of this largest Chinese city. They were in the outlying metropolitan communities to the North, South, East and West. Officials feared the last narrow bottleneck out of Shanghai, along the Whangpoo to the north, would be closed soon. With the showdown for Shanghai apparently at hand, the Communists threw a spearhead around the city's south side and entrenched themselves in positions to the east.

U. S. Consul General John Cabot said the consulate did not anticipate hostilities and destruction inside Shanghai itself. In such an unlikely event, he said, he believed some action would be taken to protect the approximately 1,500 Americans still here.

Eisler's Case to Be Heard on May 24

London, May 16 —(AP)—A magistrate in Bow street court today adjourned until May 24 a hearing on whether Communist fugitive Gerhart Eisler should be extradited to America.

The hearing on the United States request began shortly after Eisler arrived at Bow street court from Southampton. He claims asylum in Britain as a political refugee from the United States.

The proceeding was brief. Eisler, the No. 1 Communist in the United States, hastened to the court to appear in person. He was accompanied by a Scottish yard inspector testified how he took the fugitive from U. S. justice on the Polish liner Batory Saturday night.

Eisler had arrived at the court only a short time before. Apparently calm, Eisler smiled and waved to four Communists who paraded solemnly before the court with placards denouncing his arrest.

The court refused a motion by Eisler's lawyer that he be permitted to go free on bail.

The bespectacled 52-year-old Communist had been ordered earlier by a Southampton magistrate's court to show cause in Bow street why Britain should not send him back to the United States to face a jail term for perjury.

Eisler jumped his $23,500 bail in the United States, "stowed away" on the policy liner Batory and paid a passenger fare. He was carried off the ship Saturday by British authorities pending court actions to decide whether he is a political refugee or a criminal whose return is required under a British-American extradition treaty.

Four Polish diplomats were at the court when the car with Eisler arrived. Polish Ambassador Jerzy Michalowski has a date with Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin later in the day to protest because Scotland yard might lug the squirming Eisler from the ship.

A crowd of about 200 persons was outside the court and police had to clear a narrow street to let the car through.

At his last hearing in Southampton earlier, before four men and two women magistrates, Eisler remained silent.

"He instructs me," his attorney ful arrangements of lilies and pansies in vases points.

Mrs. Jim Cole, president, called the meeting to order and Mrs. Russell Steed read the minutes of the previous meeting. Club business was then discussed and the con- cana, Lewisville and Little Rock were present for the occasion.

DOROTHY DIX Ideal Mother

Dear Miss Dix: I am a young woman with two small children to rear, and when I realize that I am responsible for the way they develop and whether they turn into fine human beings or rotters, I get the jitters. Being a mother is the greatest career that any woman can espouse and the one in which she can do the most good, but it is also the most hazardous and the one in which she can do the most harm. And when I see the mothers of disciplined, spoiled children all about me, I wonder if I too, am inadequate for my job.

So will you please tell me what is your conception of what it takes to make a woman a good mother?

Answer: Well, in reality, the ideal mother should be a woman who has the wisdom of Solomon, the patience of Job, the disciplinarian mind-reader, a funny-bone that is always in working order and a heart that is spongy over with mother love. That is a pretty large order but being a mother is a big job also, and it takes brains and grit and courage and perseverance for any woman to make a success of it. Rearing a family is no occupation for the weak-kneed mothers who are so tender of their darlings that they can't bear to make them behave.

My idea of a good mother is a woman who does not become afflicted with the mother's stigmas that makes her see her children as little godlings before whom a mere mother and father must prostrate themselves in child-worship. A good mother keeps her sanity and she doesn't cherish any illusion that she can rear her children to be brats and that they will grow up into fine, altruistic men and women.

No Doormat
She knows that if she lets little Johnny talk back to her, and call her names that he will curse her out when he is a man. She doesn't make a doormat of herself for her kids. She puts herself on a pedestal and as long as they live they look up to Mom and think she hung the moon.

The good mother tries to prepare her children for life. She knows that they are bound to have plenty of hardships and she endeavors to breed into them, from infancy up, the spirit that will enable them to bear whatever comes to them without whining.

The good mother does not try to make perpetual babies of her children, nor does she keep them tied to her apron strings when they are grown she sends them about the business of life with her blessing and her love that always follows them, but that never hinders them.

Weak mothers rear weak children. They make the dorelics of society, but the influence of the good mother never fails.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am much in love with a boy who is two years younger than I am and who drinks and smokes continuously. I love him, but I fear that our differences will break up our engagement. He has already taken my engagement ring and pawned it to buy cigarettes and liquor.

Please tell me what to do.

V. MARY
Answer: When a girl writes me that she is thinking about marrying a kid who has no occupation by which he can make a living or support a wife, who is a drunkard, and who takes away her engagement ring to pawn for money said, "that he is quite confident that he will be able to demonstrate that the offense alleged against him is an offense of a political character, which means that this country has no right to extradite him."

"Finally, he instructs me to protest most strongly against this forcible abduction from the ship of a friendly country, which means that this country has no right to extradite him."

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl of 20, very much in love with a fine young man. The only trouble is that I am taller than he is. It doesn't make any difference to me because I know he is the right one for me, but I am sure he will be teased about having a tall wife. Should height make a difference to buy liquor. I wonder what has lyh chas gone out of business, for become of the Fool-Killer. Surely never were his services so needed as at the present time.

Why any girl with even a vestige of common sense, would even consider marrying that sort of a heel, nobody knows. But they do it and spend the balance of their lives repenting it.

so far as love is concerned? My family and some of my friends seem to think that it is foolish for me to marry a man who is shorter than I am. Could a 5 ft. 1 in. boy and a 5 ft. 5 in. girl be happy if they married?

A HOPEFUL READER
Answer: You must be short in brains, even if you are long in stature, if you let your fiance's height keep you from marrying him. Character and intelligence and love and congeniality are the things that make a man desirable as a husband, and these are not measured by the inch. Some of the greatest and most famous men in the world have been shorter than their wives.

so far as love is concerned? My family and some of my friends seem to think that it is foolish for me to marry a man who is shorter than I am. Could a 5 ft. 1 in. boy and a 5 ft. 5 in. girl be happy if they married?

A HOPEFUL READER
Answer: You must be short in brains, even if you are long in stature, if you let your fiance's height keep you from marrying him. Character and intelligence and love and congeniality are the things that make a man desirable as a husband, and these are not measured by the inch. Some of the greatest and most famous men in the world have been shorter than their wives.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl of 20, very much in love with a fine young man. The only trouble is that I am taller than he is. It doesn't make any difference to me because I know he is the right one for me, but I am sure he will be teased about having a tall wife. Should height make a difference

Why any girl with even a vestige of common sense, would even consider marrying that sort of a heel, nobody knows. But they do it and spend the balance of their lives repenting it.

Diplomatic Post?

Four Times Up

The Bonn convention which drafted the new German constitution adopted the flag of the old Weimar Republic, above, as the new national emblem. The tricolor was thrown out when Hitler came to power and raised the swastika in 1933. It makes the fourth time the black, red and gold flag has been used in German history. It was also the standard of General Von Lutzow and his men in 1813 and again during the 1848 revolution.

Pick: Adm. William D. Leahy, above, who recently resigned as chief of staff to President Truman, is being considered for the post of U. S. ambassador to Belgium. He would succeed Adm. Alan G. Kirk, who was appointed ambassador to Russia.

She's First Woman Envoy to U. S.

The first and only woman envoy to the U. S., Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, right, newly-appointed ambassador from India and sister of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, arrives at New York's La Guardia Field. She is accompanied by 19-year-old daughter Rita.

Takes Clay's Job

Baron Ernst von Weizsaecker, Nazi wartime ambassador to the Vatican, was convicted by an all-American war crimes court in Nuernberg, Germany, of having helped plan aggressive war against Czechoslovakia. It was the first conviction on this charge against a member of Hitler's hierarchy since Goering and 11 other top Nazis were sentenced to hang in 1946.

Lt. Gen. Clarence Huebner, above, replaces Gen. Lucius D. Clay in Germany. He will be acting U. S. military governor and acting commander of U. S. armed forces in Europe. General Huebner, deputy and chief of staff to General Clay, is a veteran of both World Wars, rising from private to general. He commanded the famous First Division in invasion of Normandy.

The New, Big Economy Size

Chicago's Crime Laboratory wanted a new lie detector, but learned that a factory-made machine would cost the city $1295. Policemen Joe, left, and John Price, economy-minded brothers, thought they could do better than that. With an O.K. from the commissioner, they built the detector above, using some old parts and some new ones. Cost: $100.

He Has Power at His Fingertips

George E. Spenke, of the Moody Institute of Science, allows 1,000,000 volts of high frequency current to arc from his body through electrodes on his fingertips. He gave the spectacular demonstration during a science lecture at a Christian Endeavor convention in Longbeach, Calif.

Air Force Unveils Its Newest Jet Fighter

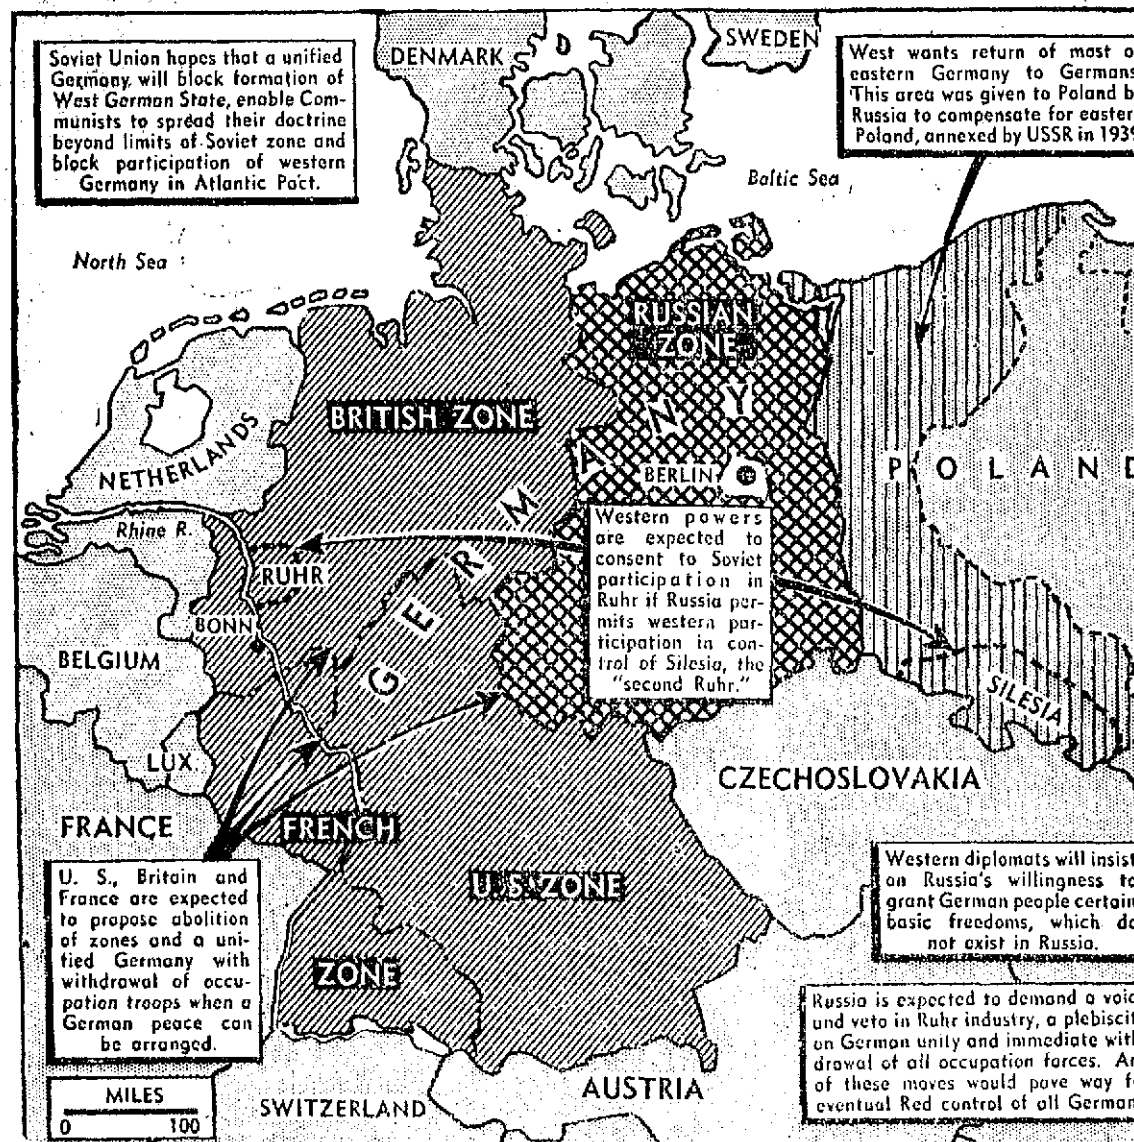

Here is the Air Force's newest jet fighter, the Republic XF-91, after it completed flight tests at Muroc Dry Lake, Calif. The plane is powered by a turbojet and will also have rocket motors, which have not yet been installed. The rockets will be used for accelerated take-off and climb and for operation at high altitudes.

In the Act: 12-Pound Colt and 'Educated' Dog

Fran Hollis hugs a 12-pound Shetland pony, left, born at the Barnes Bros. Circus in Chicago. The colt is believed to be the smallest on record. At right, Jack McDonald, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., receives his commercial art diploma from Robert Ingman, right, board chairman at Miami's Terry Art Institute, while his dog Colonel, gets a loyalty diploma. The 8-year-old mongrel never missed a class during the two years McDonald attended the institute. Even when his master was sick, Colonel got to his classes.

Here's What Big Four Will Argue About

This map highlights the major proposals and problems facing the Big Four foreign ministers at their Paris conference. It is the first attempt to settle Germany's future since the failure of the London conference in December, 1947.

'Ma' Goes to Bat for Her Son

Grim-faced Mrs. Ada Carter gets set to shoulder an outsized sign to picket the picketing the Cleveland, O., bakery shop owned by her son Lee. A local of the AFL Retail Food Clerks wants to organize Mrs. Carter and the shop's five other employees over her son's refusal. "Me join a union? No!" snapped "Ma" Carter.

Looking for a Home?

The world's largest private housing development—5000 homes—is rapidly nearing completion at Puerto Nuevo, on the outskirts of San Juan, Puerto Rico. Started little more than a year ago, 3500 dwellings have already been completed by L. D. Long, Charleston, S. C., builder. Each concrete house has five rooms and bath and sells, on the average, at $4000. This is the first of several low-cost projects designed to relieve the housing shortage in overcrowded Puerto Rico.

Navy's Jet Patrol Plane Takes a Bow

Lifting its nose from a wet runway in Baltimore, Md., after a remarkably short run take-off, the Navy's first jet-powered patrol plane, the Martin Mercator, gets airborne. Noted for its high rate of climb, the swift, hard-hitting plane can fight its way into and out of tight places. The 40-ton patrol ship looks like a regular twin-engine job, but hides much of its power potential in two jet engines mounted behind conventional propeller-driven motors.

Crack New Shanghai Police Ready for Action

Three members of Shanghai's crack police constabulary hold up their tommy guns for inspection. Outfitted with the best equipment and arms, the policemen were organized about a year ago and are prepared to deal with any emergency. With Communist armies advancing on the city, they may be pressed into action for defense or prevent the widespread looting and anarchy that befell Nanking.

The Chamber of Commerce has announced that the Tourist Courtesy and Information Course which was originally scheduled for last week had to be postponed due to an injury suffered by Mr. Milburn Adams, who was to have conducted the course. Mr. Adams will be in Prescott to conduct the course the week of May 16 and it is his plan to start the classes Tuesday, May 17.

Working with Mr. Adams will be the Tourist Courtesy and Information Committee, one of the new committees just recently appointed by Mr. Marcus Justiss, president of the Chamber of Commerce. The committee is composed of the following business men of the Service Trades: Mr. Homer Ward, Chairman; Mr. C. A. Maletsky, Mr. Foy Box, Mr. B. G. Hays, Mr. Roy Tarkington, Mr. E. E. Davis, and Mr. Tim McClelland. With approximately 2500 cars passing through Prescott every 24 hours, every effort will be made by this committee to study ways and means whereby the Service Trades Groups of our community can encourage more tourists dollars to be spent in Prescott, and the State of Arkansas.

This course is presented through the co-operation of the Prescott School system and the State Department of Education and everyone is urged to make plans to attend, that contact the tourists. All travelers appreciate the courtesy extended to them by waitresses, service station operators, tourist court operators, novelty shop operators, City policemen, hotel personnel, and others, and with Prescott located on Highway 67, the Broadway of America, our community has a wonderful opportunity, not only of selling our own City and County, but of selling the great State of Arkansas.

Chisox Send Outfielder to Memphis

Memphis, May 16 — (P) — The Memphis Chicks announced today that 21-year-old Herb Adams, Chicago White Sox outfielder, is on his way to join the Southern Association club.
Adams joined the American Leaguers as one of baseball's younger sensations. He batted .405 for Madisonville, Ky., of the Kitty League in 1947 and hit .375 — the league's best — for Hot Springs of the Cotton States circuit last year. He racked up a .302 mark in 13 games this year for the White Sox before a finger injury placed him on the bench.

Sets Record

Little Rock, May 16 (AP) — A hole-in-one and a new course record were scored at Rock Creek Country Club golf course here yesterday — all in the same foursome team. Frank Crulshank made the ace, his third on the 95-yard No. two hole.

Then Bill Martin scored five birdies on the nine-hole par 35 out to set a new record of 30.

Albrecht Again Working His Hurling Magic

By The Associated Press
Eddie Albrecht, the Cotton States League strikeout king last year, worked his magic twice Sunday by putting the Pine Bluff Cardinals into the loop lead.

Albrecht limited the Natchez Indians to three hits as the Cards took the first game of a doubleheader on their home grounds 4 to 1. He returned in the seventh inning of the nightcap to snuff out a Natchez rally and give the Cards a 12 triumph.

The Natchez club got shoved around another way, too. Umpire Harold Wilson called on police to force the Indians back into their dugout when they objected to a decision in the nightcap. Natchez Manager Joe Russo, a second baseman, and Indian catcher Jim Griffey were ejected from the game.

All other twin bills in the Class
C circuit Sunday were divided.

Clarksdale helped Pine Bluff climb into first place by whipping
the previous leaders, Greenwood's Dodgers, 7 to 4, after the visiting Dodgers had scored a 6-4 triumph.

A grand slam homer by Jim Kunkle did the trick for the Planters in the nightcap. In the first Dub Scott for five runs in the first inning and coasted through.

The El Dorado Oilers pounded three hurlers for 22 hits in winning a nine-inning opener at Hot Springs, 17 to 2. The Bathers came back to grab a 2-1 decision in the seven-inning nightcap behind the four-hit pitching of Don Schumulach, who reported to the Hot Springs club Saturday from Muskegon, Mich.

In the first tilt, El Dorado blasted five home runs. Ford Taylor and Copeland Goss each hit two and Eddie Sudol got one.

Hot Springs broke a 1-1 tie in the last frame of the nightcap when Frank Schmidt singled in Fred Wasiluk.

Knocked out of the box in the fourth-inning of Helena's 6-3 first game victory at Greenville, Hubert Benton won the second for the Bats 5-5 in a relief role. He also hit a timely single in the sixth inning of the afternoon, when the Bucks scored all their runs.

In Saturday night's games, Pine Bluff beat Greenville, 5-2; Greenwood took Natchez, 4-2; El Dorado quilted Clarksdale, 4-3, and Helena edged Hot Springs, 3-8.

Barons Go Back Into
First Place

By The Associated Press
Two victories by Birmingham Sunday put the Barons back into first place in the Southern Association and made the race more tense than ever.

Between the league leading Barons and sixth place Nashville there is only a three and a half game lag. Fifth place Little Rock needs only two games to catch Birmingham.

Birmingham routed Atlanta out of first place with 7-6 and 9-7 victories over Memphis. Atlanta's three-day league lead ended in a 4-inning loss to Little Rock 3-4.
New Orleans dropped from second to third by losing a doubleheader to Nashville 3-0 and 12-4.

The Little Rock-Atlanta game was a tense crowd pleaser as it was played, but you can't help wondering what it might have been with a few more hits Little Rock left 23 runners on base and Atlanta 20.

The Crackers tied the game up in the first 1 1/2 and took the lead in the second 3-1. Travis picked up another in the third and tied it up in the ninth at 3-3. The Crackers had added a run in the eighth.

Alex De La Garza bit a long fly to center scoring Jack Sanford with the winning run.

Records Fall in S. W. Loop Track Meet

Fayetteville, May 16 (AP) — The Southwest Conference will send some of the finest trackmen in its history against the Big Seven loop in the annual "duel of champions" next month.

Holders of six records will be among the Southwest's representatives, who were determined in that conference's track and field meet here Friday and Saturday.

Texas A. and M. won the Southwest team title and produced five new records. Two of these were set by J. D. Hampton. The seemingly tireless junior ran the mile in four minutes 17.2 seconds and two miles in 9:30.7.

Ray Holbrook sprinted 440 yards in the record time of 47.3 seconds.

Bob Hall sped over the 220-yard low hurdles in 22.8 seconds, earning from the record books the names of Rice's Fred Wolcott and Arkansas' Clyde Scott.

The other record-breaking performance was held by the Aggie mile relay team. Its time was 3 minutes, 14.9 seconds.

Perry Samuels of Texas became the fourth co-holder of the conference's 100 yard dash record when he broke the tape in 9.5 seconds.

The blond Hampton's feat in the two mile run broke the conference's oldest record. The previous mark of 9:32.4 was established in 1925 by Sandi Esquial of Texas.

A. and M.'s meet-winning point total was 55 1-4. Texas was second with 49 1-4. Following were Rice 38; Arkansas 12 3-4; Southern Methodist 12; Baylor 9 3-4, and Texas Christian 1.

The meet of the Southwest Big Seven champions will be at Kansas City, Kas., the night of June 4.

Manager Clyde Zinn's Hope Legions are preparing for their opening tilt Friday night at Waldo against an always strong Waldo Giant team.

Digging through the records, we find that the two teams have only one thing in common, and that is the fact that both lost to the Red River Tomcats 6-2. One good thing about that score is the fact that the Tomcats outslugged Waldo for their win, while the Legions lost in common, and that is the Legions look the best, but the big question is, will they after the Baseball will move to Hope next Monday night when the Legions take on Gurdon in the home opener. A big crowd is expected to be on hand for the big opening night.

Business Manager Fred Robertson announced that season reserve seat tickets would soon go on sale. Only $2 will reserve you a seat for the entire season, and it's expected that the Legion nine will play at least 20 home games, and that's just 10 cents a game for a reserve seat. These seats will be behind home plate according to Robertson.

Plans have been made to board the new fence with signs bought by the merchants of Hope. According to word from the ball park, is that there is still space left for all persons interested.

Lets all get behind this new baseball project and make it a big success.

Lets run around the park for just a few minutes now. Gilson Ross is holding down third base like a big leaguer this season. He injured his arm slightly when he made a beautiful play in Texarkana against the Tomcats.

Gurdon downed North Little Rock
14-5 yesterday. We get Gurdon next Monday.

Admission for local games will be 25 and 50 cents. A section will be reserved for the colored people and admission for them will be 25 cents straight.

All local games will start at 8 p.m. with the gates opening at 7.
Don't forget to get your opening day tickets early. They will go on sale tomorrow. The goal for opening night is 1,000.

Nelson Returns to Golf, Enters Chicago Open

New Rochelle, N. Y., May 16 — (AP) Byron Nelson's return to the professional golf circuit took another stride forward today when he said he will enter the National Open tournament in Chicago June 11-12.

The national champion in 1939, Nelson retired from competition two years ago. He returned to action in the Masters at Augusta, Ga., where he tied for sixth place, and then finished fourth yesterday.

TEXAS EASTERN COMPLETES TWO EVENTFUL YEARS

This month marks the second anniversary of Texas Eastern's operation of the Big Inch and Little Big Inch pipe lines as a natural gas transmission system.

In that short time, these two lines stretching through ten states from Texas to New Jersey have, in effect, been made over.

Texas Eastern is celebrating its anniversary by beginning a new construction program which will further improve the Big Inch System. (It is a program which will also increase Texas Eastern's ability to serve as acitizens of your community.)

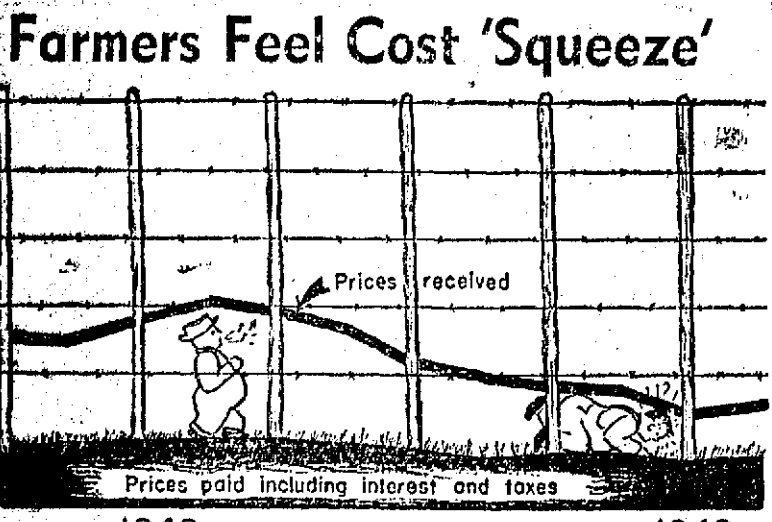

As this is written, several hundred pipe line construction men are at work laying 363 miles of new pipe line in three states. Most of this new line will run parallel to Texas Eastern's present lines; some will extend to natural gas fields. The steel pipe being used ranges from 16 to 26 inches in diameter. The latter is larger than the Big Inch.

To serve these additions to Texas Eastern's pipe line system, engineers and construction workers are building five new compressor stations and enlarging four of the 21 existing stations on the lines.

The effect of this program reaches back to steel mills and manufacturing plants where men are working to supply pipe and machinery for the job.

Cost of the program will be over 24 million dollars. As this money is spent, it will go to work constructively in nearby communities and throughout the country.

When Texas Eastern's new construction is finished next winter, the results will be lasting. Operation of its new pipe lines and compressor stations will be reflected in payrolls and in the taxes paid by the Company and its employees.

Hempstead County farmers are being squeezed by continuing high production costs while prices of most farm-produced commodities have dropped substantially.

Moreover, there is little chance that the price-cost situation will get better this year, according to County Agent Oliver L. Adams.

Since their peak in July of 1948, farm prices have dropped steadily, reaching their low point in February, 1949. And, while they picked up slightly in March and April, no major general price recovery can be expected.

Hardest hit by the price decline are the farmers who were careless in keeping down production costs during the period of high prices.

In the Goodall round-robin tournament here.

When Nelson retired, he said he would play only in the Masters each year.

Favorites Not Doing So Well

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

False alarm! Chalk up another error for the experts who predicted a two-team race between Boston and Cleveland for the American League pennant.

The prognosticators failed to take into consideration the over-all improvement of the so-called weaker clubs — particularly the Chicago White Sox and Washington Senators.

First the Nats made the experts squirm by running up a winning streak of nine straight. No sooner had the Senators cooled off than the Chisox began to sizzle.

The White Sox turned in the eye-lifter of the season yesterday when they shut out the Indians twice at Chicago, 10-0 and 2-0.

Bill Wright, the ex-Yankee southpaw, pitched a five-hitter in the opener for his fourth straight victory. He still hasn't tasted defeat. Allen Gettel doled out four hits in the nightcap.

Coming through with a spectacular seven-run outburst in what proved to be the final inning of the second game, the Philadelphia Athletics overcame a 6-0 deficit to nip the New York Yankees 7-6 for a sweep of their doubleheader. The A's also fought an uphill battle in that labor will be used throughout the year, and keeping farm equipment in good condition to reduce maintenance costs. On cotton farms, cross-cultivation is a good labor saving practice.

Good land use is always important, the agent stressed. He suggested planting only the more productive land to crops utilizing the remainder as pasture, meadow and woodland.

ISLAND OF ESCAPE

By Hugh Lawrence Nelson

The Story: Four shipwrecked members of a small movie group which lands on Spacely Island, where Henry Gough Harding is trying to establish a 'New Eden,' have upset the schedule of the place. Fred Sillwell, an alcoholic, is a wealthy producer. Plans are made for Henry Warren Harding to supply him with liquor from Harding's carefully guarded stores. But George Bascombe, Sillwell's aide, finds cases washed ashore from the wreckage and tells Bea his fortune is made. Mabel Jones tells 'Bea' later that Harding apparently is attracted by one of the actresses, Mollie Stark, but Mabel doesn't fear losing her own campaign to win Harding's heart.

By the end of the week, it was obvious George Bascombe was sharing his cache with someone else besides Sillwell. Lilly Warren went about her cooking with much chatter of pots and not too successful results. The housework suffered too as Lilly was absent for long hours. Bea was not sure whether Henry Harding noticed, or whether his preoccupation with his patient made him blind to mundane affairs.

One the night before Lilly's final day as housekeeper and cook, Bea Cosgrove was awakened by the sound of voices coming through the wall to the tower room. She sat up, saw Lilly Warren's bed empty.

"Fun and games next door," Nona McGuire said sleepily from her cot. "Do we get up and join the party or go back to sleep."

"It doesn't sound like much fun," Bea pointed out.

A door slammed loudly, the voices were still.

"Party's over," Nona murmured. "Some fun, no doubt."

Bea slept fitfully the rest of the night, heard Lilly come in with the exaggerated and noisy caution of a drunk, and awoke early to see Mrs. Warren standing in the bathroom door pouring herself a drink from a full bottle.

"Good morning," Bea said.

"Nuts to you," Lilly answered.

"All right," Miss Cosgrove said amiably. "You want me to help you get breakfast?"

"Drunk or sober I c'n cook better'n you. I c'n do anything better'n you." She had another drink, put the bottle down on the dresser and started out. At the doorway she whirled around, retraced her steps quickly and snatched the bottle to her breast. "No you don't." She went out in a blaze of belligerency.

Nona McGuire sat up. "What a load," she yawned. "I can see we're going to have a swell breakfast. She ought to give Mollie a vote of thanks for keeping Harding so blind. If he is blind?" Bea asked.

Nona McGuire laughed. "Really, you have to know dear little Mollie well to love her like I do. Come on and let's get dressed. We might miss something."

Surprisingly enough, Lilly had breakfast ready on time. She appeared to have pulled herself together, though her breath was a thing of substance and her eyes did not focus very well. Twice when she bent over Henry Harding to serve him, Bea waited for an explosion.

Henry Harding kept his eyes fixed on his plate, avoided any direct look at Mrs. Warren. It was Lilly who glowered at him. When the man finished quickly and hurried out, Lilly laughed.

Mumbling to herself, she staggered through the swinging door to the kitchen.

Beneath the main house, passageways cut in stone led back into the snacious subterranean storerooms. Narrow-gauge tracks were laid in the floor and small heavy trucks clicked smoothly along them.

At the entrance was the upper terminus of the funicular railways to the dock in the cove below. One gondola-like car, five feet long and three wide, rested at the tiled platform step. The heavy steel cables times before returning down the steep hill to the car at the lower or cove end.

ble attached to its upper end went At 10:30, Henry Harding came looking for Bea.

"There're some things I want to send down," he told her. "You can ride down with them."

He pushed a hand truck back shortly with several cases of whiskey. "It's a place to lock these up down below."

Bea got in hesitantly and sat down.

"Don't worry now," Harding said. "It's perfectly safe. This lever on the side opens the front end of the gondola. We used it to empty rocks in the wharf fill. It spills out the load. And you of course."

"What a salesman you'd make for a scenic trip," she muttered. "suppose the cable breaks?"

"It won't. It never has."

"All right. But just remember I'm not a fond of rocks."

The first few feet sloped gently. Bea stifled a yip when it began to gain momentum.

She could get the lower car coming abreast, Lilly Warren sat in it, her head nodding slowly with the motion of the car.

Then Bea saw the red stain down from Lilly's temple. They were abreast and she could see the other side of Lilly's head where the mushrooming bullet had smashed out.

Too late she caught the glint of steel in Lilly's lap. he had only time to recognize her own automatic before the gondola was past.

She twisted around, watched the car and its occupant move up toward the terminal, watched the careless nodding of Lilly's shattered head. She had to finish her trip down.

When the car finally stopped at the very edge of the dock, she sat motionless staring down at the water and at the beach beyond. She saw a wave, bolder than the others lick up and destroy the huge bare footprint in the sand.

"Do angels have wings, mother?"

"Yes, dear."

"Can they fly?"

"Yes, dear."

"Then when is the nurse going to fly? I heard Daddy call her Angel yesterday."

"Tomorrow, dear."

It's spring cleaning time on the BIG INCH LINE!

A "Pig" cleans a new pipe line

The massive object hurtling from the pipe above is known to pipeliners as a "pig." Here this giant steel scrubbing brush is being used to clean a newly-built section of pipe line on the Big Inch System. Natural gas propels the "pig" through the pipe and into the air together with the dirt it has removed.

Texas Eastern also uses "pigs" to clean its 3,000-miles of pipe lines while in operation. "Pigs" are sent through 50 miles of line at a time, and are recovered in ingenious "traps" at compressor stations (picture at right). This method, new to the natural gas industry, saves time and money and — most important — does not interrupt service. Texas Eastern uses scores of "pigs" to carry on its "Spring Cleaning" the year around.

A new idea for natural gas TEXAS EASTERN TRAPS ITS "PIG"

Texas Eastern's housekeeping never stops...

Cleaning pipe lines is only part of a continuous maintenance program. Thousands of pieces of equipment are painted regularly to prevent corrosion and maintain the neat appearance of the lines.

Machinery must be kept clean inside too. Hundreds of oil filters and 300,000 gallons of lubricating oil are used annually to keep the Big Inch System operating at top efficiency.

Cleanliness is an important safety measure. Buildings at Texas Eastern's compressor stations are kept as clean and spotless as a modern housewife's new automatic kitchen.

Texas Eastern has a special "housekeeping" task this summer. The grounds around its 21 new stations will be graded and planted to make them as attractive as they are efficient.
